Safeguarding your Guests

How alcohol affect the body can vary slightly among Guests but by being aware of the certain factors and watching for behavioral clues you can better monitor consumption. The goal is to maintain a safe environment and not let a Guest become intoxicated.

Factors to Consider:

- Physical Size
- Rate of Alcohol Consumption
- Standard Service Sizes
- Consumption of Food
- Drug Use

As a server of alcohol, your first priority is to provide excellent customer service, thus, refusing service can be awkward. It is important to find a balance between serving responsibility and providing good customer service. When you talk to any Guest, it is important to communicate clearly. Guests appreciate servers who are polite, honest and knowledgeable. The key to success is to remain polite and professional without being vague or avoiding the issue. One of the best tools you have for maintaining control is to use “I” statements. By phrasing your statements in the first person “I”, you move the focus off of the Guest and onto you as the server. This shifts the conversation away from the negative (what the Guest can’t do) to the positive (what you as the server can do). Also, provide a reason for your actions. Here is a sample list of reasons you might use to refuse service.

- “It is against the law for me to serve you alcohol right now”
- “I have to see a valid form of ID before I can serve you alcohol”
- “I am concerned about your safety if I server you another drink”

If you find yourself wavering remind yourself of the following:

- It is in the best interest of the Guest not to be served.
- People are depending on you to do what is right rather than what is easy.

You are expected to check all IDs and refuse service when necessary. Always involve your manager on duty either immediately before or immediately after you deny someone service. In fact, Managers need to be involved in all alcohol related situations. All situation that involves refusal of service to an intoxicated Guest must be documented. Remember, the privilege of serving alcohol, also carries the responsibility of providing a safe atmosphere to all Guests in your establishment. The safety of all your Guests is one of the most important responsibilities that you as an employee.

No one who is visibly intoxicated or is under the age of 21 is to be served alcohol.

All sales and use tax returns must be filed and associated tax payments made electronically to the Department. Taxpayers may do this at <https://tntap.tn.gov/eservices/>. Taxpayers should file the sales and use tax return according to their filing frequency on the 20th day of the month following the reporting period. If your business opens after the 20th of the month, you may report sales made during the remaining days of the month with the next reporting period. In order to avoid penalty and interest charges, all returns must be filed and all associated tax payments must be made on or before the due date for the reporting period. Taxpayers should always file a return for their business, even if they do not make any sales during a reporting period.
