INTRODUCTION

Carlson Restaurants is extremely pleased to provide you with the SURF (Serving Up Responsible Fun) program. Our company has been an industry leader in alcohol awareness training for a long time and our training program signifies the importance that we continue to place on the responsible service of alcohol in our restaurants. The purpose of this program is to help you and your fellow team members serve our guests in a responsible manner and to provide useful strategies for handling specific situations that you may encounter in the restaurant. The safety of our guests, our team members, and the community has always been one of our top priorities. Therefore, this information will provide you with the tools necessary for quality decision making, even in difficult situations. The SURF program contains:

TRAINING TOOL HOW TO USE IT

SURF Manual

You are required to read this manual and apply it in executing responsible bar service. This manual contains information on the effects of alcohol and guidelines to prevent alcohol service to a minor and to recognize and prevent guest intoxication. Each section of the manual contains scenarios to help you determine the best approach for responsible alcohol service.

SURF Online Training

You are required to complete the online course after thoroughly reading this manual. The online course provides an overview of the content, along with video scenarios of real situations. This course must be completed in the restaurant.

SURF Online Assessment

You are required to successfully complete the assessment as a condition of employment. You must receive a score of at least 90% to pass and you will be given two opportunities to pass.

Many states and municipalities have enacted laws requiring additional approved training. If required by your state or municipality, you must complete such training program, within the required time frame in addition to completing the company's SURF training.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY AND THE LAW

Your Responsibility

It is your responsibility to know the local laws regarding the service of alcohol. You must understand your legal responsibilities and your potential liability regarding alcohol service.

Criminal Liability

Anyone who violates state, county, or municipal alcohol service laws may be held liable and face criminal charges. This means you could get a citation, get arrested, and/or incur legal fees. The company will not take responsibility for defending you in such criminal actions. The following actions are criminal in most states:

- Serving alcohol to a minor
- Serving a guest who is or appears to be intoxicated
- Possessing, selling, or allowing the sale of drugs on the premises

Civil Liability

Civil liability is being held responsible for payment of damages for injury to a person. Individual managers, bartenders and servers, in addition to the business and its owners, are at risk of being sued and held financially responsible if they contribute to a guest's injury or do not act to prevent it.

Dram Shop Laws

Dram shop laws allow an establishment and its owners and employees to be sued by someone injured by a patron who was drinking alcohol at the establishment. These laws create a special type of civil liability related specifically to holders of liquor licenses and their employees.

Laws Restricting Alcohol Service

Age-Related Laws Restricting Alcohol Service

- It is illegal to serve alcohol to a minor. In all states, a minor is defined as an individual under the age of 21.
- In some states, parents are permitted to offer alcohol to their minor children in a bar or restaurant. However, it is our company's policy to refuse service to anyone under 21, even when authorized by the parent.
- Some municipalities also have age restrictions for entering a restaurant bar area.
- Additionally, your municipality may have age restrictions for serving alcohol, taking a drink order, pouring alcohol, and processing payment for alcohol. (Check with your GM for your municipality's restrictions.)

Other Laws Restricting Alcohol Service

- It is illegal to serve a guest who is intoxicated or who shows signs of intoxication.
- It is illegal to deny alcohol service to a woman because she is pregnant.
- Some municipalities have restrictions related to hours of service, happy hours, and other drink promotions. (Check with your GM for your municipality's restrictions.)

CHECKING IDENTIFICATION

Ensure All Guests Are of Legal Age

Fridays Forty Rule: It is company policy to always ask for ID from anyone who appears to be under the age of 40. Always verify age by checking ID. You should refuse service if a guest cannot prove they are at least 21. Never assume someone is of legal age, even if you have witnessed them drinking in the restaurant before (for example, if they are a "regular"). You must always personally check their ID.

Acceptable Forms of Identification

You should always use the current ID Checking Guide to verify that an ID is genuine. As a general rule, only the following IDs are considered valid:

- State-issued driver's license
- State-issued ID
- Military ID
- Current passport
- In some jurisdictions, an immigration card is an acceptable form of identification.

All IDs, no matter their state of origin, must have all of the following to be valid:

- The holder's birthdates, signature, and photograph
- Be current (not expired)
- Be intact—not damaged
- Contain a hologram

Unacceptable Forms of Identification

The following are generally not acceptable forms of ID:

- A birth certificate
- A company ID from the guest's employer
- An ID issued by a private identification company
- A student ID card
- Voter's registration card
- A laminated ID card

Verifying Identification

There are four qualities that must be verified when checking an ID. An ID must:

- Be valid
- Not be issued to a minor
- Be genuine
- Belong to the guest

Verifying the ID is Genuine

Familiarize yourself with the valid IDs in your state and those of neighboring states. It is important to use a resource, such as the current I.D. Checking Guide, to verify that an ID is genuine. You must be able to recognize the following types of commonly used false IDs:

- A driver's license or ID altered to include a false photo, fake dates, and other incorrect data
- A counterfeit card created with a camera, computer, and lamination equipment
- A genuine ID being used by the wrong person

The Proper Procedure for Checking IDs

Be pleasant to all guests while checking identification. If you are not certain about the authenticity of the ID, ask to see a second form of acceptable ID to confirm and refer to the current ID Checking Guide in your restaurant. It is the responsibility of the guest to provide an acceptable form of identification. If you cannot confirm the authenticity of the ID or if the guest is unable to produce a second form of acceptable ID, politely refuse service. DO NOT serve the guest an alcoholic beverage. Use statements such as, "I apologize but I cannot serve you without a valid ID." Do not embarrass the guest.

The proper procedure for checking IDs is to:

- Greet the guest politely—make eye contact
- Ask the guest for an ID—review ID for signs of tampering
- Verify the ID—check the four verification qualities (listed above)
- Seek further verification if necessary—second ID or signature comparison

Using the Birth Date to Verify the Guest's Age

- Add 20 to the guest's birth year
 - Add 1 to the total
 - Compare the calculated year to the current year
- The guest is 21 years or older IF:
- The calculated year occurs before the current year
 - The calculated year matches the current year and the guest's birthday has passed
- The guest is UNDERAGE IF:
- The calculated year occurs after the current year
 - The calculated year matches the current year and the guest's birthday has not passed

Signs That an ID Has Been Issued to a Minor

- Specific color—such as red—in backdrops, title bars, text, and borders around photos
- Statement such as "UNDER 21 UNTIL 00-00-0000"
- Photo placement—opposite side of ID
- Format—vertical vs. horizontal
- Ghost photo images

IMPORTANT:

We use a mystery shopper program to ensure quality service in all of our restaurants and to confirm that guests are being "carded" according to SURF requirements. While the ages of mystery shoppers will vary, all mystery shoppers will be over 21 and appear under 40. Therefore, mystery shopper's must be "carded."

If you do not check a mystery shopper's ID and you place an ordered drink within the shopper's reach, then you are NOT adhering to the policy. You may be terminated with a no re-hire option.

Checklist for Authentication

The following questions should be considered when deciding if an ID is genuine:

- Does the photo look like the person? Do photos on different documents look like the same person?
- Does the description match the individual?
- Is the document an out of state driver's license which the person believes you will not recognize as a forgery?
- Is the expiration date correct? (e.g. State driver's licenses expire on the individual's birth date and the driver's license handed to you expires on another.)
- Has the document expired?
- Are there any errors in the seal?
- Is some lettering raised while other portions in the same line are not?
- Is the photograph raised higher than other portions of the document? (Indicates that the photograph has been placed over another photo, then laminated.)
- Does the photograph have too much or too little body in it compared to a genuine document? Is the document recently laminated? (Indicates that a portion of it has been covered with a different photo or other information, then laminated.)
- Does a genuine document have frosted lamination? Does the document in front of you?
- Are there any lumps, bumps, or indentation under the lamination?
- Are there any stray marks or lines on the document? (Indicates that a portion has been covered in the process of photocopying.)
- Are there any misspelled words?
- Are there any incorrect colors or shades of colors?
- Does the document contain a hologram?

- Is the document worn in abnormal places or is there any uneven fading? (Indicates that the documents have been artificially made to appear old.)
- Is the weight of paper correct? (e.g. too thin, too thick?)
- Is the size of the document correct?
- Is the amount of letters or numbers in the document number correct? (e.g. The genuine document combines three numbers and two letters and this document combines one number and four letters.)
- Does the size or style of lettering vary:
 - Within the same words or phrases?
 - Does a genuine document have these same variances?
- Can the person quickly answer simple questions about age, address, zip code, year of birth, year of graduation from high school, middle name, etc.?
- Does the identification look like the example in the current ID Checking Guide?
- Is the style of printing correct? (e.g. block versus script)
- Is the document blurred?
- Is the name of the department issuing the identification correct? (e.g. Licenses in Texas are issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety not "Texas Department of Safety".)

IMPORTANT:

Handling a fake ID: Some states do not allow vendors to confiscate false IDs; therefore it is our company's policy to never do so.

SCENARIOS

This section is intended to demonstrate some of the rules and procedures stated in the manual. It is impossible to predict all types of situations that you will encounter in your restaurant on a day-to-day basis. The following are examples of possible situations you may encounter and suggested ways to respond.

Two guests enter the restaurant claiming they forgot their driver's licenses but offer a college ID with no photograph as proof of age. What should you do/say? What if they show their birth certificates?

Answer: You should refuse alcohol service to these guests. A college ID is not acceptable, nor is any ID without a photo. You should politely refuse service without embarrassing the guests, invite them to stay for food and a non-alcoholic beverage, and/or invite them to return when they have their IDs with them. A birth certificate is not an acceptable form of ID.

A guest is sitting at the bar and orders another beer. You know that she was served by the bartender before you, whose shift just ended. The guest appears to be under 21 to you. What should you do/say? What should the previous bartender have done?

Answer: You should politely ask her for identification before serving any more alcohol. The previous bartender should have advised you if her ID had been checked so it wouldn't have to be done again. However, do not assume that the prior bartender checked the identification simply because she is drinking alcohol. If you discover the person is a minor or does not have an acceptable ID, do not serve any more alcohol to her, remove the drink that she is drinking, and notify your manager.

You notice a minor walk in with an adult in the bar area. Shortly thereafter, the adult comes to the bar and orders two alcoholic beverages. What should you do/say?

Answer: Tell the guest you must see the ID of the person who will be drinking the beverage. You may have to elicit the help of other team members to ensure that alcohol is not given to the underage guest. If you see the guest supply alcohol to the other person, you must immediately check that guest's ID. If the guest is underage, stop service to both guests.

RECOGNIZING AND PREVENTING INTOXICATION

Alcohol and the Body

This information helps you to understand what you can do to prevent our guest from becoming intoxicated. As alcohol enters the body:

- Approximately 5% is absorbed in the mouth;
- Approximately 20% is absorbed through the stomach wall;
- Approximately 80% is absorbed in the small intestine.
- Once in the bloodstream, the alcohol passes through cells and throughout the body.

Blood Alcohol Content (BAC)

Blood Alcohol Content (BAC) is the amount of alcohol that has been absorbed into the bloodstream. In all 50 states, it is against the law to drive with a BAC of .08 or higher.

Removing Alcohol from the Body

Only the liver can eliminate alcohol from the body. It takes time for this to happen; about one hour for each drink consumed. A cold shower, exercise, fresh air or black coffee will NOT help the liver metabolize alcohol at a faster rate. Only time will lessen the effects of alcohol.

How Alcohol Affects BAC

Since the liver can eliminate alcohol from the body at the rate of only about one drink per hour, consuming more will result in a build-up in the guest's bloodstream, raising their BAC. During the hour that the liver is breaking down the alcohol in the first drink consumed, the alcohol in any additional drinks gets backed-up and stays in the bloodstream.

You can estimate a guest's BAC by counting drinks, by using BAC charts, and by watching for signs of intoxication. This will help you make good decisions in the responsible service of alcohol.

Refer to the charts to see some of the factors that may affect BAC. These charts should only be used as a general guideline; a guest's actual BAC may be higher due to other factors.

8		.344	.284	.241	.209	.184	.164	.148	.134
		Indicates a BAC of .08 or higher

According to the BAC chart, a woman weighing 160 lbs. might possibly safely consume 3 drinks in the first hour and her BAC may stay under the legal limit, but there are several factors that must be considered (see next section). Each individual is different, so this is the absolute maximum she should be served in an hour. After the first hour, service must be slowed because BAC continues to rise. Remember, the charts do not take other factors into consideration.

IMPORTANT:

These charts are only a guideline for the maximum amount of alcohol that could be consumed in the first hour of service because BAC continues to rise after every consecutive hour of alcohol consumption.

Physical Factors Affecting BAC

Body Type - People with a higher percentage of body fat are at a higher risk for intoxication than leaner people.

Gender - Women tend to become intoxicated with less alcohol because they have a higher percentage of body fat, are often smaller than men, and produce less of the enzyme that aids in breaking down alcohol.

Age - Age can affect individuals by increasing their average body fat percentage and reducing the quantity of the enzyme that aids in breaking down alcohol.

Additional Factors Affecting BAC

Emotional State – Stress, anger, and fear cause reduced blood flow to the stomach and small intestine, slowing the absorption of alcohol. Once calm, a person may experience a sudden increase in their BAC as the blood flow returns to normal.

Medications – Many over the counter medications can compound the effects of alcohol including those for colds and allergies. Further, many prescription medications such as those taken for high blood pressure, anxiety, and depression may even more sharply increase the effects of alcohol.

Food – Food keeps alcohol in the stomach for a longer period of time, slowing the rate at which it reaches the small intestine. Foods that are high in protein work best. Sugars and carbohydrates digest quickly and do not help speed the absorption of alcohol. Salty foods may cause thirst and lead to additional drinking of alcohol.

Carbonation – Carbonation may speed the rate at which alcohol passes through the stomach, causing a person to reach a higher BAC at a faster rate.

Proof – Measure of a liquor's strength, or the percentage of alcohol it contains. Percentage of alcohol can be determined by dividing the proof by two. It is important that you know what drinks guests are consuming, as well as how many. Some beverages we serve contain more than one serving of alcohol. Drink equivalents are listed in the drink recipe book.

IMPORTANT:

Guests with a combination of these factors require more attention on your part to prevent intoxication.

Assessing Guests' Level of Intoxication

The best approach is to:

- Count the number of drinks you serve AND
- Observe guest behavior

Counting Drinks

Begin to count with a guest's first drink and continue counting the entire time the guest is in the restaurant. Keep in mind that not all drinks are of equal strength (or proof). As previously mentioned, drink strength/proof is a major factor affecting a guest's BAC. To accurately count drinks, you need to know how much alcohol each drink contains. Use bar tabs to help keep an accurate count.

Each of the following has equivalent alcohol content even though they differ in amount and type of alcohol:

- 12 oz. beer (American lager 4-5% alcohol)
- 1 ¼ oz. of 80 proof liquor
- 1 oz. of 100 proof liquor
- 2 ½ oz of 40 proof liquor
- 5 oz. glass of wine (Note* Our standard serving of wine is 6 oz.)

Using Tab Procedures to Count Drinks

- To start a new tab, place it in a clean rocks glass in front of the guest or party, or at the bar. On cocktail tables, place tabs in a clean rocks glass or check presenter.
- Tabs must be placed in front of every guest/party seated at the bar and cocktail tables within 30 seconds of drink delivery.
- If a guest is not running a tab, cash out the transaction. Provide a receipt with the guest's change/voucher.
- Each time an order is added to the tab, replace the existing tab with the newly printed, updated tab.
- In some situations, counting drinks may be difficult. If this is the case, you must rely primarily on your observation of the guest's behavior.

Observing Behavior

Observe the guest's behavior upon arrival and be aware of any changes in behavior. A change in a guest's behavior is more important than the action or behavior itself. For example, a person who enters the restaurant and is quiet, but becomes loud and boisterous after a few drinks should be watched carefully.

In addition, careful observance of behavior will help you avoid mistakes such as believing that a person with a speech impediment or physical condition that causes stumbling or other issues, is intoxicated. Keep in mind that certain medical conditions (stroke or diabetes) can cause similar symptoms. Look for a medic alert emblem which is normally worn around the neck or wrist.

Physical and Behavioral Signs of Intoxication

- Relaxed Inhibitions – Inhibitions restrain or suppress a person's emotions, actions, or thoughts. Guests with relaxed inhibitions may:
 - Be overly friendly
 - Be unfriendly, depressed, quiet
 - Use foul language
 - Become loud
 - Make rude comments
- Impaired judgment – A guest's ability to make sensible decisions will be affected. Guests with impaired judgment may:
 - Complain about the strength of a drink after having consumed others of the same strength
 - Begin drinking faster or switch to larger or stronger drinks
 - Make irrational or argumentative statements
 - Become careless with money (i.e., buying drinks for strangers, over tip)
- Slowed Reaction Time – A guest's reaction time and response may slow down. Guests with slowed reaction time may:
 - Talk or move slowly
 - Be unable to concentrate, lose their train of thought, become forgetful
 - Become drowsy
 - Become glassy-eyed, lose eye contact, lose the ability to focus
- Impaired Motor Coordination – A guest's motor skills may be affected. Guests with impaired motor coordination may:
 - Stagger, stumble, fall down, bump into objects
 - Be unable to pick up objects, or may drop them
 - Spill drinks or miss their mouths when drinking
 - Sway when sitting or standing
 - Slur their speech
 - Have difficulty lighting a cigarette

Tolerance to Alcohol

Tolerance is the ability to endure alcohol's effects without exhibiting the usual signs of intoxication. A person with a high tolerance can consume more drinks before exhibiting signs of impairment or intoxication. Therefore, be mindful that the BAC will be much higher than a regular drinker.

IMPORTANT:

Tolerance does not affect a guest's BAC, but it may improve the ability to hide the effects of alcohol. We do not want guests with a high alcohol tolerance to leave the restaurant with a high BAC. This is why counting drinks and observing guest behavior is imperative. You will be held liable for the guest's impairment, acts of violence or alcohol.

Team Communication

Team communication is vital to ensuring that the company's SURF policies are carefully followed. All FOH team members must observe the behaviors and actions of guests and communicate to other team members and managers if a guest shows signs of intoxication.

If you or another server have slowed or refused alcoholic beverage service to a guest (or believe that such action may soon be necessary), inform your manager and your fellow team members, particularly at shift change.

If a guest is drinking and moves from one area of the restaurant to another, communicate with the bartender/server in the new area to ensure the guest is not over-served. Let the bartender/server know how many drinks the guest has already been served.

IMPORTANT:

If, at any time, you decide to stop service to a guest, your manager will support your decision. Therefore, always support your fellow team members decision to discontinue the service of alcoholic beverages. Never over-ride a fellow member's decision even if you disagree.

Preventing Guest Intoxication

- If you have a group celebrating a particular event (e.g. bachelor party, softball tournament, etc.) be aware of drinking "contests".
- Solitary drinkers are sometimes more difficult to read. Taking the extra time to engage them in conversation will help with your observation.
- Do not over-pour when making drinks. It alters the count of drinks and is a violation of company policy. It is also a terminable offense. You are expected to free pour and you will be given a pour test at the start of each shift. Therefore, it is very important that you follow recipes and be consistent.
- It is our company's policy that other than a shot and a beer, no guest should be served more than one alcoholic beverage at a time. Team members are responsible for ensuring that no person obtains an alcoholic beverage through a third party.

SCENARIOS

This section is intended to review and test your knowledge on recognizing and preventing intoxication. The following are examples of possible situations you may encounter and suggested ways to respond.

Four people are drinking together. One person is drinking much faster than the others and is trying to get the others to drink more by ordering rounds. What should you do/say?

Answer: Slow down alcohol service to the person who is drinking too much. Do not allow that person to order drinks for others. To avoid offending the first guest, ask each of the others if, in fact, they want another drink or would they prefer some food or another non-alcoholic drink.

You are working the service bar late on a Saturday night. A server orders a third round of drinks for a table in one hour. What should you do/say?

Answer: Advise the manager of the situation immediately, so that the server and the manager can assess the situation and determine if service should be discontinued.

A guest enters the bar and orders a drink. At first, the guest appears quiet and calm. After a second drink, he becomes louder and more outgoing. What should you do?

Answer: It is important to watch for behavioral changes in your guests. Continue to monitor his behavior, he could have been partially impaired when he arrived. It is your responsibility to ensure that he is not over-served, regardless of his condition upon arrival.

A 200 lb. guest gulps down 2 Long Island Iced Teas (or 2 shooters) in less than an hour. What should you do/say?

Answer: Slow alcohol service to the guest and pay close attention as service to him/her may need to be discontinued. Suggestively sell food and non-alcoholic drinks.

You overheard a 200 lb. guest state that he is dieting and has not eaten in hours. The guest has had 1 glass of wine in less than 1 hour. What should you do/say?

Answer: Someone who is dieting and has not eaten will feel the effects of alcohol faster than normal. However, a 200 lb. guest who has only had 1 drink is still in the safe zone. You should carefully monitor his drink consumption to ensure that he is not over-served and you should suggestively sell some type of food item.

You overheard a guest state that he is taking antihistamines for hay fever and is drinking. What should you do/say?

Answer: Drugs such as antihistamines and alcohol do not mix well. The use of antihistamines can sharply increase the effect of alcohol. Monitor the guest and closely watch for signs of intoxication.

A guest sits at the bar area and orders a beer after finishing his meal in the dining room. What should you do/say?

Answer: In order to ensure the guest is not over-served, you should first observe the guest's behavior. Talk with the server as soon as possible to determine how much alcohol the guest was served while in the dining room. Continue to carefully observe the demeanor and behavior of the guest.

A friend of yours from college comes into the restaurant. She has several drinks and continues to order more. What should you do/say?

Answer: You should treat your friend no differently than any other guest and you should ensure that she is not over-served alcohol.

HANDLING DIFFICULT SITUATIONS

Handling an Impaired or Intoxicated Guest

Impaired or intoxicated guests can be challenging from time to time. Following the proper procedures can help keep the situation under control. Managing with proper procedures and following an action plan can keep the situation under control. Some of these procedures include: discontinuing service to a guest, managing a guest who arrives impaired, and managing a guest who wants to leave, yet appears to be impaired.

Discontinuing Service to a Guest

If you believe a guest may be approaching a level of impairment, service should be discontinued immediately. A bartender/server can stop service to a guest. If uncomfortable with confrontation, request that the manager on duty "cut-off," or discontinue, the service of alcoholic beverages to the guest.

The bartender/server reserves the right to cut-off, or discontinue, alcohol service without prior approval of management, if he/she believes that the guest is becoming impaired. If this occurs, the manager WILL support the decision.

Procedures for Stopping Service

- Wait until the guest orders the next drink before refusing service
- If you think you might need assistance, alert an experience team member or manager prior to refusing service.
- Make eye contact and inform the guest that you are stopping service
 - Express concern and empathy
 - Remain firm in your decision and maintain a non-threatening demeanor
 - Offer nonalcoholic alternatives
- Notify other team members on shift and/or at shift change to ensure the guest is not served
- Managers must be informed immediately of your decision and action to "cut off," or discontinue service to a guest

Guests Who Arrive Impaired or Intoxicated

- Do not serve alcohol to a guest who enters the restaurant impaired
- Introduce yourself by your first and last name and ask the guest for his/her first/last name. Refer to the guest as Mr. or Mrs. (last name).
- Offer to call a taxi, car service (see taxi procedures), or a friend
- Remain firm and maintain a non-threatening demeanor
- Do not touch or have physical contact with the guest
- Should the guest refuse assistance, call the police and report the guest's name and the make, model, color, and license plate of the guest's car (if you can acquire that information without leaving the restaurant).

Impaired Guests Who Attempt to Leave

In the event that a guest appears to be impaired, you must use your best efforts to convince the guest not to drive. Offer the following solutions:

- Introduce yourself by first/last name and ask the guest for his/her first/last name. Refer to the guest as Mr. or Mrs. (last name).
- Suggest a friend or someone else who is not impaired to drive them home
- Offer to call a friend to pick them up
- Call a taxi or car service using the following procedure. (We will pay the fare to take the guest home, and if necessary, pay the return fare to pick up their car):
 - The GM charges taxi costs to the DO's cost center (coded to travel)
 - Where available, use a funded taxi or car service. If a funded service is not available, select a preferred taxi company.
 - Post the number of the preferred taxi or car service, along with numbers of two alternative taxi companies in the office, the Bar, and the Host/Hostess stand. These numbers should not be visible to guests.
- Offer complimentary food while they wait for a taxi or friend

If the guest refuses assistance, advise that you will contact the police and that you are concerned for his/her safety. If the guest continues to refuse assistance, call the police and report the guest's name and the make, model, color, and license plate of the guest's car (if you can acquire that information without leaving the restaurant).

Managing Potentially Violent Situations

The company does not allow weapons of any type on to the premises. If you become aware of such a situation, notify your manager immediately.

You must make a reasonable effort to avoid all situations that may lead to violence. If an impaired or intoxicated guest becomes verbally abusive, bolsters, or shows signs of hostility that may lead to a physical altercation, notify your manager immediately. If fighting or violence occurs, immediately take the following steps:

- Get the attention of other team members and a manager, if possible
- Immediately remove all glass, bottles, and utensils from the area
- Remove other guests from the area; ask guests to remain calm and refrain from interaction
- Stay out of harms way
- Call 911 immediately
- Announce that the police were called and are on their way - repeat this announcement as necessary
- Continue to monitor the situation for escalation

Managing Suspicious or Illegal Activities

Illegal activities are strictly prohibited on the premises. Illegal activities may include:

- Gambling
- Prostitution
- Possession or sale of drugs

Always consider your safety and the safety of other team members and our guests before taking action:

- Notify your manager
- Call the police
- Always involve your manager when taking actions that may have legal implications

Keep your own personal liability in mind. If asked by a manager to do something you believe to be illegal:

- Tell the manager you are not comfortable with the request
- Ask the manager to do it instead of doing it yourself
- Talk to the GM, DO, or call the employee relations hotline at 1-800-Fridays

SCENARIOS

This section is intended to review and test your knowledge on handling difficult situations. The following are examples of possible situations you may encounter and suggested ways to respond.

Your guest appears intoxicated and orders another drink. What should you do/say?

Answer: Do not serve the drink. Obtain back-up, preferably from the manager if the guest is with a group. Try and get the guest alone and advise them that you cannot serve him/her any more alcohol. Offer suggestions for food and non-alcoholic beverages. Do your best to not allow the guest to drive home. Ask for his/her car keys. If he/she insists on driving, contact the police.

Two guests at the bar get into a loud argument. Your efforts to quiet them are ignored. They become angrier and louder. What should you do/say?

Answer: Attempt to calm the guests and notify the manager of the situation. If you and the manager cannot calm them down, contact the police.

Your guest appears intoxicated. You offer to call a cab but she refuses. She is about to leave. What should you do/say?

Answer: Introduce yourself by using your first/last name. Ask the guest for their first/last name. Refer to the guest using (Mr. or Mrs.) Last Name. Offer to call a taxi or let someone drive her home. If she refuses, tell her that you are going to contact the police if she attempts to drive away. If the guest still insists on driving, note the vehicle make, model, color, and license plate (only if it is possible to acquire this information without leaving the restaurant) and call the police. Advise the police of the guest's name and vehicle information and that the person appears to be impaired and may not be able to drive a car safely (Refrain from using statements such as "the guest is drunk.")

It is Saturday night and the bar area is extremely crowded. You see two guests in the back of the line start to argue and the discussion seems to be escalating. What should you do/say?

Answer: First, approach the guests and request that they stop arguing. If they continue to argue and you cannot stop them, contact the police. It is best to be overly cautious rather than let the problem escalate. Your restaurant should develop and maintain a "zero tolerance" attitude to incidents of this type.

A fight breaks out in the bar on a Friday night when the restaurant is completely full of guests. What should you do/say?

Answer: Get the attention of another team member and a manager if possible. Call 911 and announce that the police were called. Repeat this announcement as necessary. Remove other guests from the area and ask guests to remain calm and refrain from interaction. Stay out of harm's way and remove all glass, bottles and utensils, if possible, from the area. Continue to monitor the situation for escalation from a safe distance while waiting for the police to arrive.

A guest walks into the restaurant and is staggering and swaying as he makes his way to the bar area. Upon arrival at the bar, what should you do/say?

Answer: You should engage the guest in conversation and observe him long enough to determine if he is intoxicated or if there is another reason he is walking in that manner (such as a physical handicap). If he appears intoxicated, no alcohol should be served and you should attempt to ensure that he does not drive.

SERVING ALCOHOL RESPONSIBLY

Revised 07/13

The Cheesecake Factory is committed to serving alcohol responsibly. Managers and staff must take all reasonable steps to prevent underage drinking, alcohol over consumption and to prevent our guests from driving while under the influence of alcohol. The reputation of our restaurant is at stake.

The Law

The legal drinking age is 21 in all states. In Puerto Rico, the legal drinking age is 18.

Most states have a specified time after which alcoholic beverages may not be consumed. Do not serve alcohol after that time.

Third party liability laws read that the server of alcohol and the restaurant establishment are held liable when a guest consumes alcohol, leaves the premises and then causes injury or death to himself or someone else. The law requires that a server make reasonable effort to prevent intoxication in guests, prevent alcohol sales to minors and intervene if a guest does become intoxicated.

While some states or locales may have less strict guidelines for alcohol service, The Cheesecake Factory follows the strictest rules in every case.

Identification Request or "Carding"

As a bartender and/or server, you must make certain that the person you are serving to is of legal age.

Anyone who appears under 30 years of age is required to have a valid ID.

Notify a manager immediately if guests have any problems with this request.

When requesting identification from guests who appear to be 30 years of age or younger, follow these guidelines: (NOTE: See ID Guidebook for validation. This is a guide that shows all state and government issued IDs. It should be located behind the bar.)

Acceptable Forms of ID

- ◆ Valid driver's license
- ◆ Valid state-issued ID card
- ◆ U.S active-duty military ID*
- ◆ Valid Passport*

*In some states with stricter regulations, military IDs and Passports are not acceptable forms of identification.

A manager must approve any other types of identification.

Acceptable Forms of ID (Puerto Rico Only)

- ◆ Valid driver's license with photo
- ◆ Electoral ID
- ◆ Birth Certificate
- ◆ Any official ID showing date of birth

Steps to Checking IDs:

- ◆ Ask the guest to remove the ID from his/her wallet.
- ◆ Determine whether the ID is valid by:

- Checking the birthdate. (If you are in doubt, check the daily additions board for the "born on or before" date.)
- Checking the expiration date.

If you suspect a problem or discrepancy with the identification offered, get a manager immediately

Intoxication Awareness

By definition, intoxication occurs when the body takes in more alcohol than it can safely process, thereby creating both physical and mental impairment.

Behavioral Cues

The effects of intoxication vary from person to person, but are progressive and affect in order: a person's inhibitions, their judgment, reaction times, as well as their coordination. Below is a list of behavioral cues and how it may affect a guest.

Inhibitions	Becomes talkative, relaxed, over-friendly, loses self control and sometimes displays mood swings
Judgment	Behaves inappropriately, such as ordering doubles at last call, uses foul language, tells off-color jokes or annoys others
Reactions	Glassy, unfocused eyes, talks and moves very slowly, forgets things, and slurred speech
Coordination	Stumbles or sways, drops belongings, has trouble picking up a drink

Absorption Rate Factors

Size	Smaller people are sometimes affected more quickly by alcohol than larger people
Gender	Women are generally smaller than men, have more body fat and tend to reach higher blood alcohol content (BAC) levels more quickly
Food	A full stomach slows the absorption of alcohol into the bloodstream
Strength of drink	Drinks can have different effects based on the amount of liquor, e.g. martinis, liquor served on the rocks.
Composition of drink	Drinks can have different effects based on their composition. Carbonated mixers, high sugar mixes and hot beverages may speed up absorption of alcohol into the blood stream.
Rate of Consumption	Ordering frequently and drinking rapidly will increase the amount of alcohol taken into the system
Mood	A person who is obviously upset, exhausted or under stress feels the effects of alcohol more quickly than others

Once alcohol is absorbed into the blood stream, only time will decrease the blood alcohol content.

Serving Guests: The Traffic Light System

Many establishments use a beverage alcohol consumption system based on the traffic light system. Green means safely go ahead. A guest has had little or nothing to drink and can safely be served alcohol. Yellow calls for caution. A guest at the Yellow level has begun to show the effects of beverage alcohol consumption, and service must be slowed to prevent him or her from getting to the red level. Red means stop. The guest already has consumed too much, and alcohol service must immediately be stopped.

Monitoring Guests

There are two steps to effectively monitoring guests: 1) Evaluate a guest's ability to safely consume beverage alcohol; and 2) count the drinks he or she consumes.

Remember: Never serve a guest into the red level.

Green:

Guests at the green level have not had anything to drink or have consumed what they easily can tolerate. Overall, guests behave sociably as if they had not been drinking. The guest seems:

- ♦ Relaxed
- ♦ Comfortable
- ♦ Talkative
- ♦ Happy

Yellow:

Moving into the yellow level, a guest can become argumentative, quieter, or more talkative, depending on the individual. In the yellow level, the guest shows signs of:

- ♦ Reduced inhibitions
- ♦ Impaired judgment
- ♦ Talking or laughing louder than normal
- ♦ Being overly friendly to employees and other guests
- ♦ Becoming giddy – the life of the party
- ♦ Arguing or baiting
- ♦ Increasing use of foul language
- ♦ Increasing beverage alcohol consumption
- ♦ Buying rounds for strangers
- ♦ Becoming careless with money

Red:

Moving into the red level, a guest reacts slowly and is less coordinated. The guest seems to be:

- ♦ Moving in slow motion
- ♦ Needing time to respond to questions
- ♦ Glassy-eyed
- ♦ Losing his or her train of thought
- ♦ Making irrational statements
- ♦ Spilling drinks
- ♦ Dropping money
- ♦ Unable to sit up straight
- ♦ Stumbling or falling down

Responsible Alcohol Service

It is your responsibility to ensure that our guests do not over consume alcohol in our restaurant. Your management team is available to support your efforts in preventing over consumption.

In order to protect our staff and guests, only a manager may decline alcohol service to a guest. Do not attempt to handle these cases by yourself. In extreme cases, a manager may call a cab if the guest is not capable of driving.

If you feel uncomfortable serving a guest, politely excuse yourself from the table or bar and get a manager. You must notify a manager if a particular guest or group is consuming heavily and if you are concerned there may be a potential for over consumption.

The following tips will help you to serve our guests responsibly:

- ♦ Engage guests in conversation to determine a baseline of behavior for them. This will help you to decide when they have "had enough." Conversations may reveal prior consumption and their current state of mental alertness.
- ♦ Keep track of the number of drinks served. We do not have a hard and fast rule limiting the number of drinks we will serve—it depends on the guest and alcohol absorption factors.
- ♦ Confirm that the person who pays for the drinks is of age. Do not permit a guest to buy drinks from the bar and take them back to the table, unless you have checked the IDs of those appearing to be 30 years old or younger.
- ♦ Suggest food or appetizers to a guest who is consuming heavily. Talk to your manager if you feel complimentary food or appetizers may be in order.
- ♦ As an alternative to another alcoholic drink, offer a guest who is consuming heavily a complimentary coffee or soft drink.
- ♦ We do not serve back up drinks (2 drinks for each person) at last call.

Designated Driver Program

We recognize designated drivers by offering the designated driver complimentary hot or iced tea, coffee or soft drinks. The server must ring in the desired beverage and have a manager comp it off the check.
